CHOICE BEVERAGE INSURES PURITY

New Devices Installed To Guarantee Absolute Purity Of World's Favorite Drink

Let it not be boasted that Statesboro is in any degree the only headquarters of the nation's favorite soft drink—for Statesboro is really one of the thousands of centers located throughout the world—but there is no place anywhere which has superior methods by which to insure the continued purity of that well known commodity called Coca-Cola.

How does any commodity attain a standing equal to that enjoyed by this favorite drink—except to merit that reputation by careful attention to every detail?

This much is said by way of introducing the fact that within recent days there have been steps taken at the local Coca-Cola plant in Statesboro to bring to a still higher state of perfection the output of the local plant. Proud of this attainment, Manager F. H. Harbour has extended a general invitation for the public to "come and see" the plant in operation. It is this operation which arouses enthusiasm and inspires confidence. This most recent accessory is the modern sterilization plant which has been installed. With the chemicals used which mean sure death to every species of microbe, the bottles are placed in line for sterilization on rotating machinery and are untouched by human hand until the filled bottle reaches the end of a moving belt and is ready to place in the crate. This detail of care has not happened to spring into life—it has grown through the long years, with gradual developments from year to year, until the drink stands out in front of drinks throughout the entire world.

Today if you visited the plant, you would observe the plant in motion—and a force of workmen proud of their connection with the operation, bending their energies to maintain the high record of perfection and popularity which Coca-Cola has attained.

Not in the order of their official prominence, to be sure, it may be mentioned that the plant is dependent upon the hearty co-operation of that group of employees beginning with Mr. Harbour and extending up and down the line to include Paul Hendrix, Kermit Hollingsworth, L. M. Williams, Billy Futch, C. B. Call, Herman Deal, Alvin Griffin, Toy Hollingsworth, Martin Rogers and Joe McConner.

To Study Provisions Survivors' Insurance

This paragraph will present the intimate story of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. Its purpose is twofold: First, to inform you of the Social Security Administration program that provides benefits to aged workers and their families when the worker retires and to surviving members of families when the breadwinner dies, and to inform you of your rights under this insurance, so that you can reap the full benefit it has to offer.

The field office which serves Bulloch county is located in the Post Office Basement, Savannah. It has three outstanding functions:

1. The handling of all types of benefit claims. This may be said to be the most important function since no benefit may be paid until the qualified person files his or her application.

2. Issuance of new and duplicate social security number cards.

3. Assistance to wage and salary workers in commerce and industry in checking their social security wage records to make sure that the records kept for each worker are accurate.

If you have any questions you wish to ask, you are invited to meet the representative in Statesboro, at the Georgia state employment office, on the following dates:

January 5, 10 a. m.; January 18, 12 noon; February 2, 10 a. m.; February 16, 12 noon; March 2, 10 a. m.; March 16, 12 noon.

FOR SALE—300 bushels good corn $1.25 per bushel at my barn 5 miles south of Brooklet, Ga. MRS. J. W. FORBES. (5jan10c)

Bulloch County Veteran Gets Master Farmer Recognition

Ottis Holloway, of Pulaski, Master Veteran Farmer of the First District, has been chosen for the top award in the Master Veteran Farmer contest for the American Legion Department of Georgia.

Mr. Holloway will get a check for $125 as first prize in the contest. Second prize goes to W. F. Hall, of Sparta, and third place to Curtis B. Avery, of LaGrange. Hall will receive a check for $75 and Avery will receive one for $50.

Nine districts submitted the applications of veterans to be entered in the state contest and competition was close, especially among the three top contestants.

On his return from World War I, Mr. Holloway started farming and now owns 275 acres of excellent land in Bulloch county. His brick home is as modern as any urban home even though it is some fourteen miles from town. He owns and operates a tractor with all related equipment, a comparatively new truck and automobile, two mules, some twenty cows and seventy-five hogs. He does not owe anything on any of this.

Mr. Holloway made his family's living and paid for this farm and equipment on this farm. He has never followed any other occupation. He cultivates 35 acres of cotton, 6.2 acres of tobacco, 30 acres of peanuts, and the remaining is cultivated in corn and other feed crops. Of the remaining land on his farm, 40 acres are in permanent pasture, fenced with fifteen head of beef cattle and 100 head of hogs during the year. Practically all of his land is terraced and winter cover crops are used as well as summer legumes.

Mr. Holloway was one of the first in the county to help develop a Farm Bureau. He was his own community's first president and was on the board of education for ten years. He was instrumental in helping to extend one of the first rural telephone lines in his community and was one of the key men in helping to put a modern gym at the Register High School. Mr. Holloway was also member of the county AAA committee for a number of years.

The Holloway's farm also has an acre of home orchard. He saves his own fruit and has a freezer locker to take care of his own vegetables, poultry, eggs, meats and other foods.

EXTEND BENEFITS OF VETS EDUCATION

Opportunity Now Open For Recovery Of Some Benefits Charged Against Them

Veterans who are currently enrolled in training establishments under the GI Bill of Rights or similar federal laws and who are near the end of their entitlement under the law, are affected by an important announcement released by William K. Barrett, director of the State Department of Veterans Service.

Barrett said, "A substantial number of World War veterans—students who are near the end of their entitlement to federal assistance under the GI Bill should take advantage of a recent Veterans Administration regulation permitting them to recover some of the entitlement charged against them."

"This can be done by re-purchasing from the Veterans Administration some of the involuntary leave time for which they were paid subsistence allowance and which was deducted from their educational entitlement."

"The right to do this is important to those veterans who have not quite enough entitlement left to reach the half-way point of a school semester. If they pay back the relatively small sum involved in a 15-day end-of-term leave (which they were granted unless they specifically requested otherwise in advance), they may restore enough entitlement to carry them past the mid-point in a semester or term and thus be eligible for federal benefits for the remainder of the school term."

Veterans who are near their educational entitlement are urged by Barrett to call at the Veterans Service Office in their locality for further information concerning this matter.

LONG-TIME FRIEND SAYS PAPER IMPROVES

Atlanta, Ga. Dec. 19, 1949.

Dear Mr. Turner:
I'm reminded that another year is coming in, and I feel that I must read your good paper again. Not joking when I say it grows better all the time. You—and all who are connected with gathering up the news each week—are to be complimented, I for one do appreciate your efforts. It's no easy job, but how I love to get all the news since I have time to read it.

Wishing you a very happy New Year,

Your friend,
MRS. W. T. GRANADE.

WOMEN INVITED JOIN ARMY CORPS

Regular Arm Commissions Offered College Women Who Meet Specified Requirements

Qualified college graduates without previous military service now have an opportunity to become officers in the Women's Army Corps of the Regular Army, according to an announcement made by Brigadier General Geo. H. Weems, commander general of Georgia Military District.

This is the first time, the general pointed out, that the Army has offered direct commissions in the Women's Army Corps to women from civilian life. An applicant must be a college graduate, or prospective graduate in her senior year, who will have attained her twenty-first birthday but will not have passed her twenty-seventh birthday on the date of being ordered to active duty for attendance at a basic course. Age waivers may be granted in certain cases to women with World War II service. Applicants must be United States citizens, single, with no dependents under 18 years of age, and must pass the prescribed physical examination.

Applicants selected after a competitive screening will be given direct appointments as second lieutenants in the Women's Army Corps section of the Organized Reserve Corps and will be ordered to extended active duty at Camp Lee, Va., next summer for a basic course. During the training period they will receive pay and allowances of second lieutenants. Upon satisfactory completion of the course they will apply for appointment in the Regular Army and, if qualified, will be commissioned. If not found qualified for Regular Army appointment, officers may be selected to remain on extended active duty, subject to prevailing officer assignment policies, or may request relief from active duty, and retain commission in the Organized Reserve Corps.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the local U. S. Arm and Air Force Recruiting Station located at the court house in Statesboro.

MENTAL PATIENTS GIVEN MORE CARE

Governor Talmadge Makes Inspiring Report of Affairs At State Mental Hospital

Atlanta, Jan. 2.—(GPs)—There's a heart-warming story in Gov. Herman Talmadge's recent report on the State Mental Hospital at Milledgeville. In fact, no other year-end report of the state government perhaps reach the heart of Georgians like this one.

The Governor, in his radio "Report to the People," told of the many improvements that have been made at the institution during the past year and of the extensive improvements to be made in the immediate future.

He told the human side of the story; how patients are now being better fed and better housed than ever before.

He said today the 5,000 patients are receiving the best care in the institution's history—the kind of treatment that some day may send many of them home to a normal life again.

To every Georgian who has a relative or friend confined there the news will be received with a feeling of deep satisfaction and hope.

Among the improvements that have been made in the past year are these: Fresh eggs are now being served to patients for breakfast for the first time in history. They get fresh fruit once a week "instead of once a year," and chicken and fish once a week. In short, patients and attendants are now being served exactly the same meals.

For their comfort, 1,684 straight chairs, 624 rockers and 53 wheel chairs were purchased "for patients who once sat around on benches or on the floor in long, badly-lighted halls." Each patient now has a mattress of the best quality, and linen is changed twice weekly instead of once every two weeks as in the past. Linen is changed daily in the hospitals.

Nine doctors have been added to the staff, bringing the total to twenty-one, and there are now five dentists instead of two. Graduate nurses now number thirty-eight instead of eighteen, and the number of general nurses has been increased from 750 to 931.

The institution has received $2-million more under the present administration than in the previous fiscal year, Gov. Talmadge said. Physical improvements, in addition to many already made, include a 1,000-bed psychiatric hospital to cost $490,000; a $412,000 central warehouse, which will contain a freezing system, baking plant, canning plant, cold storage for food and many others.

HAAKER TO APPEAR IN Second Artist Series

William Haaker, pianist and conductor of the Richmond and Virginia Orchestras, will appear at Georgia Teachers College at 8:15 p. m. next Tuesday, in the second concert of the artists series sponsored by the college and the Statesboro Concert Association.

Haaker, a protégé of Jose Turbi, will offer a program ranging from the works of Chopin to compositions reflecting late trends in popular music. The audience will be limited to students, members of the Concert Association and their guests.

Dr. Roger J. Holland Jr., president of the Concert Association, has disclosed that this group will sponsor two additional attractions before the end of the season in May. The association presented its first artists, the Chicago Grand Opera Ballet, before an enthusiastic capacity house on November 4th.
